MANY HEAR SEN. L. SLACK

Assembly Room of the Court House
 Crowded to Overflowing Last Night at the Meeting of the Bryan and Kern Club—Most Successful
 Meeting of the Campaign.

SPEAKER MAKES A BIG HIT

The meeting of the Bryan and Kern Club in the assembly room of the Court House last night was a grand success. Senator L. Ert Slack of Franklin, leader of the minority in the Upper House of the Legislature, was the speaker of the evening and he gave the people the story of Governor Hanly's "$40,000 personally conducted special session of the Legislature" in a clear and precise manner.

When Senator Slack was introduced to the audience the assembly room was crowded. Every seat was taken and many stood during his address. On account of the late adjournment of the Legislature, Mr. Slack and Senator Moss, who came with Mr. Slack from Indianapolis, did not arrive until 8 o'clock. The meeting was called at 7:30 and at that time the assembly room was filled to overflowing.

Jackson Boyd, president of the club, called the meeting to order and addressed the audience until the arrival of Senator Slack. The Senator was met at the Big Four station by James L. Randel, W. L. Denman and Charles J. Arnold with the big Studebaker Touring car, which is here for demonstrative purposes, and no time was lost in getting him to the court house. The car, by the way, is the same car used by W. J. Bryan in his last visit to Chicago.

After the address by Senator Slack Senator Moss was introduced to the audience and spoke for a few minutes. The meeting was a most enthusiastic one of the best political meetings held here in years.

Senator Slack spoke mostly regarding the special session of the Legislature. He pointed out the causes for the calling of the session and showed that it was purely a political move and not a temperance move as the Republicans would have the people believe. He spoke of the position that Mr. Hostetter had taken in the session and said that our representative, realizing that the Republicans had called the session from purely political motives, would have been a traitor to the Democratic party had he allowed the Republicans to use him as a tool.

He further spoke of the state-wide prohibition bill offered by the Democrats at the session and asked why Thomas T. Moore of this town had voted against the measure and why all the Republicans had done so, if they were sincere in their temperance agitation.

Evening Address.

Dr. U. Sasamori, president of Chinzai College, Nagasaki, Japan, will speak in the chapel of the College Avenue Church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. He was the fraternal delegate of the Methodist Church of Japan to the General Conference at Baltimore. He has received much honor in his own country and has a multitude of friends in America. He graduated at DePauw, class of '91, and also took post-graduate work. He will be heard with great interest and profit tonight.

LANE WITHDRAWAL OFFER AN AUSPICIOUS BEGINNING

Speculation as to the Conditions Under Which the Republican Candidate Would Cease to Oppose Hostetter.

WAS IT UNKNOWN BRIBERY?

The Indiana bribery statute is, as we showed recently, very comprehensive. It forbids, under severe penalties, not simply the payment or promise of money, but the giving or promising any "valuable thing." Not only that, but the man who "corruptly offers or promises to do any act beneficial" in behalf of the person it is sought to influence is guilty of bribery under the statute. Whether or not the offer of the Rev. O. Lane to withdraw from the race for the Legislature if his opponent, Mr. Hostetter, would vote for the option bill comes within the statute would seem to depend wholly on whether the offer was "corruptly" made. It was plainly an offer to do something "beneficial" to Mr. Hostetter for the purpose of influencing his vote. Was it a corrupt offer, or an offer corruptly made? The fact that the vote was wanted for what was believed to be a meritorious measure is not necessarily proof of the innocence of the offer. It is as illegal and immoral to buy a vote with money for a good purpose as for a bad one. The offense consists in the purchase of the vote. There can be such a thing as bribery in a good cause.

Whether this is true of such an offer as that made by Mr. Lane is the question. If it had been accepted Mr. Hostetter would have been spared considerable expense, much hard work and some anxiety. With no opponent in the field his election would have been assured. It does not seem necessary that a man shall have a corrupt motive. On the contrary, he may be inspired by the most patriotic purpose. The corruption thus appears to inhere in the act itself. In other words, if the offer is corrupt it must of necessity have been corruptly made within the statute. We do not say that Mr. Lane's action is a violation of the law, much less that the minister had any thought of violating the law. He, of course, had no other wish than to serve what he believed to be the interests of the public. But it must be admitted that he skated over very thin ice.—Indianapolis News.

FUNERAL OF OTIS HENDREN

The funeral of Otis Hendren who met so tragic a death on last Monday night was held today at 1:30 o'clock at the Christian Church at Stilesville. At 11 o'clock a brief service was held at his home on East Seminary Street, conducted by Rev. J. M. Rudy and Rev. J. S. Hoagland. After this service the funeral party in which were fifty or more Greencastle people was taken in a special car provided by the interurban company to Amo. Here they were met with carriages which took them to Stilesville. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. M. Rudy and was under the direction of the Odd Fellows of which Mr. Hendren was member. Mr. Hendren was 37 years of age and leaves a wife and two children, a son 12 and another 9, by a former marriage.

FALLS DOWN STAIRS

Hillis, the four-year old son of Frank Shoptaugh met with an accident yesterday afternoon which came near proving fatal. He stumbled on the stairway and fell from top to bottom, a distance of fourteen feet and was picked up apparently lifeless. He was in an unconscious condition for a long time and at this time is only semi-conscious. It is impossible to say now, just how seriously he is hurt, but the physicians say he will likely recover from the accident.

AN AUSPICIOUS BEGINNING

Hospital Fair Starts With a Rush—Excellent Exhibits and Beautiful Booths Attract Large Crowd From The Opening Hour.

THE STANDS DO GOOD BUSINESS

The Hospital Fair has opened. At 10 o'clock this morning all was in readiness and the movement was begun which it is hoped will add largely to the funds at the disposal of the association. All day yesterday a number of men and women had been busy and tastefully decorated booths had been put up in the court house on the first floor, and at each of the entrances. This morning these booths were covered with all manner of salable articles. One could secure almost any thing from a hot lunch to a sewing machine. There were dainty hand made articles such as aprons and handkerchiefs, Japanese dishes and china, farm products, flour and meal, hot coffee and sandwiches, ice cream and cold drinks and all the things between these extremes.

The court house was well filled all day. Outside the weather man had served up a rather severe bit of fall atmosphere, but in spite of this the Bainbridge band, snugly stowed away in an angle of the south side, drew a crowd to hear one of the best band concerts given here in some time. There was music within also where a piano accompanied by a drum discoursed music grave and gay ranging from the most ragged of rag-time to that which was classic.

A new move was started today when a paper was sent round for signatures of those who would contribute five dollars in case one hundred signatures were secured. The paper passed rapidly and some twenty names went down in the first half hour of the circulation of the paper.

One of the favorite posts of observation was from the second story where a considerable number of persons gathered and looked down upon the busy and merry scene below. The weather was so cold that it was very unpleasant on the north and west sides of the Court House where some of the booths were located. But inside and wherever the sun shone there was a crowd. And wherever the crowd was there was a swelling of the hospital fund. The beginning, in spite of the weather, was most auspicious today. Every one come out tomorrow and help do things.

The Log Sawing Contest.

The log sawing contest came off at half past two o'clock. A hard log some fifteen inches through had been prepared for the contest which was open to men over seventy. The first to attempt the trial was Asbury O'Hair and Israel Knauer. Mr. O'Hair is in his 83d year. They finished the cut in two minutes and fifteen seconds.

Hiram Heady and Simpson O'Hair next started to saw but were challenged on the age limit and had to stop as they were not over seventy. John Cook and Ellsbury O'Hair made the last cut in two minutes and seventeen seconds. This left Asbury O'Hair and Israel Knauer winners of the prize.

CIRCUIT COURT NOTES

The court had a hard time in transacting its business this morning. The day's business was begun in the court room, but when the band began to play for the Hospital Fair, stationing themselves in the speakers stand on the east side of the court house, so much sound came into the court room that business was impossible. The court then moved to the law library room. But business had hardly begun there when the band, driven out by the chilly breeze that swept over the old speaker's stand, moved into the sunshine on the south side and drove the court back into the court room.

The case of the Star Jack Company against F. E. Lawton and Edward W. Perry was heard by Judge Rawley. The case is one of interpretation of contract. The plaintiff company is represented by Jackson Boyd, and Guy Humphreys of Bloomfield. The defendants are represented by Col. C. C. Matson. The case of the Star Jack Company against James Chadd and Mary Chadd was also laid before the court. Argument was heard this morning. Judge Rawley took the case under advisement.

In the afternoon the case of W. A. Beemer against Henry Halton was taken up. The trial was before the court. The case was not complete at the time of going to press.

ANOTHER SUSPECT LET GO

Tramp Arrested at Terre Haute is Brought Here But is not Identified As the Man Who is Supposed to Have Killed Otis Hendren—Marshal and Detective Go After Him.

ARE WORKING ON OTHER CLEWS

A tramp who gave his name as William Edwards, was arrested in Terre Haute yesterday. The man answered the description of the man believed to have killed interurban agent Hendren here on Monday night. Marshal Reeves and one of the detectives in the case went to Terre Haute yesterday evening and brought the man here. Persons who had seen the mysterious man around the station on Monday night failed to identify him, however, and he was released. The man's clothing tallied exactly with the man who is being looked for but he otherwise did not fill the description.

One of the detectives stated this morning that there are other clues which are being followed up. They have nothing which promises to be of much help in ferreting out the mystery at this time, however.

Charley Sims, arrested Tuesday, probably will be released from custody today. The officers have investigated his case very thoroughly and now believe him innocent of any crime greater than intoxication. It was believed at first that he might know something of the murder.

No Truth to the Rumor.

The rumor of yesterday to the effect that Mrs. Otis Hendren had been married and divorced before marrying the late Mr. Hendren is entirely without foundation. Mrs. Hendren had never been married before. Mr. Hendren, however, had been married twice. He had two children by his first marriage.

Woman's League.

The Woman's League of the College Avenue Church held its first meeting since the mid-summer adjournment Wednesday afternoon in the chapel of the church. This society which is composed of the members of the church and congregation has a membership of more than four hundred women and does much in many ways for all good causes. The meeting yesterday was largely attended and was principally of a social nature. The new president, Mrs. Joseph P. Allen presided. Mrs. Florer conducted the devotional exercises. After a brief business session refreshments were served and a social half hour was enjoyed. A number of new women were present, besides many friends and visitors from other churches. The refreshment committee was Mrs. Dobel, Mrs. Reeves, Mrs. J. L. Preston, Mrs. Welk and Mrs. Conn.

PERSONAL

The Century Club will meet Saturday afternoon at 2:30 with Mrs. R. L. O'Hair. The paper for the afternoon will be read by Mrs. J. D. Torr.

Mrs. James B. Nelson and Mrs. O. F. Overstreet entertained at cards yesterday afternoon at the home of the latter in honor of Mrs. Harry Wilson of Cleveland, who is here the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Arnold.

Miss Edna Nowland of Indianapolis arrived this morning to take up her work as teacher of English in the High School. Miss Nowland has been appointed to take the place made vacant by the resignation of Miss Daggy and will begin her work next Monday.

E. B. LYNCH TO PUSH SUIT

City Fails to Secure Agreement With The Furniture Dealer And Case Will go to Trial in the Circuit Court—Hitch Over Who Should Pay Attorneys' Fees.

OTHER SUITS MAY BE FILED

The city and Edmund B. Lynch failed to get together in a compromise in the suit against the city for an injunction and damages and Mr. Lynch will push his suit. The case is set for trial on next Thursday.

The hitch in the proposed compromise was caused by the city's refusal to pay the attorney fees in the case. Mr. Peck, for the city, agreed to pay the court costs but refused to pay the fee of the attorney for Mr. Lynch. It now appears as though the case would go to trial and be threshed out in the courts.

The case is for $1000 damages and a permanent injunction prohibiting the city from dumping sewage upon the land of Mr. Lynch. Many down town persons have been made parties to the suit.

Miller-Snodgrass.

The marriage ceremony of Miss Anna Miller of Bainbridge and Charles Snodgrass of Fillmore was performed yesterday afternoon at four o'clock by Rev. W. H. Brown at his home in this city. The bride is the daughter of Henry Miller of Bainbridge and the groom is a well known young farmer of near Fillmore. They will reside at Fillmore.

Coffin-Ruark.

Married at the home of Rev. W. H. Brown this morning, Miss Ruby Ruark and Oliver M. Coffin of Fillmore. The bride is the daughter of T. J. Ruark living east of the city and the groom is telegraph operator at Fillmore. Mr. and Mrs. Coffin will make their future home at Fillmore.

EGG-O-SEE COMPANY FAILS

Advertising Scheme of Giving Dollar Bills Away, Together With Too Rapid Expenditure Causes Creditors of Battle Creek Company to Sit up and Take Notice.

LIABILITIES OF NEARLY $600,000

Greencastle people will remember the Egg-o-see girl who appeared here several weeks ago, clad in stars and stripes, and handed out dollar bills to consumers of the breakfast food she represented. It was a unique way of advertising, but it must have been expensive. It is said the company distributed $40,000 in Chicago in the same way the distribution was made here.

Many people wondered how it could afford the outlay, and it seems it couldn't, for a committee of creditors, have the Egg-o-See Cereal company, the concern having been placed in the committee's hands.

It is said the company's liabilities amount to nearly $600,000. President J. W. Cassidy, of the company, has turned over to the creditors' committee a complete list of liabilities and also unissued bonds with a par value of $220,000. Cassidy declared he was sure the creditors would find the company is more than solvent. Cassidy also denied current reports that the present difficulty will result in the absorption of the concern by the National Biscuit Company. The present situation is regarded as the result of too rapid expansion.

Student Temper

The grand student rally will be held at 6:30 o'clock in the hall music has been occasion. Rev. J. M. of the Christian Church and a of wide experience in reform work will make the principal address. Dr. Gobin will also make a brief talk. All temperance workers are urged to attend and help the student movement.

RUN THROUGH A PRACTICE TEMPERANCE RALLY HERE

COACH BROWN ANXIOUS TO CLAD TEAM IN IRON BY SATURDAY.

REV. RUDY WILL ADDRESS STUDENTS ON FRIDAY IN PLATO HALL.

MEN ARE SHOWING UP WELL

INTEND TO STIR ENTHUSIASM

Coach Brown yesterday continued his drill against Indiana with the stiffest workout of the season. From the time the squad struck the field two full teams were at constant play. There were regulars on both sides of the line and the varsity had strenuous business to perform in running the ball over for three touchdowns during the scrimmage practice which lasted over an hour. The coach is not satisfied with the interference furnished by the back field for the man carrying the ball and he will not be satisfied until every man is into every offensive play in earnest. Both the varsity and scrubs seemed weak on the point of offensive interference and needed constant urging to get together.

The practice the coach has tried out considerably this season of using varsity and scrub on both sides of the scrimmage line is working to bring out the hardest kind of work from each man and is building up endurance power in all members of the squad that is sure to count in future games. Yesterday's practice at constant driving scrimmage was a workout that made the men leave the field as from a hard game and a few such practices will make them iron proof against failure in real battle on the field.

The scrubs continue to show timber that is pushing timber in every practice. It is difficult with the mixed condition of the line to predict the lineup for the Indiana game.

Miss Mayne Guild of Medaryville has registered for some work in the art school.

Mrs. Junkin of Warsaw was here yesterday making preliminary arrangements for moving here to place her daughter in the school of music.

Miss Pearl O'Hair, a graduate from the college of Liberal Arts is doing work this year in the school of art.

Miss Edith Miles of Plainfield registered in the School of Music yesterday.

Miss Walls of Farmersburg has returned to her home after a few days with her sister of the music school at Woman's Hall.

Prof. Norris has five students in his pipe organ class in the music school.

Miss Jean Shupp who substituted for Miss Oldfield last year, as head of the voice department, during the European stay of the latter, has opened a private studio in Terre Haute. She starts out there with a good class.

Miss Margaret Hubbard of Indianapolis will visit friends at the Kappa house the latter part of the week.

Poster Clippinger of Indianapolis will come Friday to visit Deke brothers.

Harry Shackelford is ill at the Sigma Chi house.

Hugh Thornberg went to Indianapolis yesterday.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heartburn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, and dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator, and nerve strengthener. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at its formula will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of the following native American forest plants, viz., Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherry bark, Queen's root, Bloodroot, and Mandrake root.

The following leading medical authorities, among a host of others, extol the foregoing roots for the cure of just such ailments as the above symptoms indicate: Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Med. College, Phila.; Prof. H. C. Wood, M. D., of Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., Author of American Dispensatory; Prof. Jno. M. Scudder, M. D., Author of Specific Medicine; Prof. Laurence Johnson, M. D., Med. Dept. Univ. of N. Y.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., Author of Materia Medica and Prof. in Bennett Medical College, Chicago. Send name and address on Postal Card to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive free booklet giving extracts from writings of all the above medical authorities and many others endorsing, in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient of which "Golden Medical Discovery" is composed.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They may be used in conjunction with "Golden Medical Discovery" if bowels are much constipated. They're tiny and sugar-coated.

WHAT ABOUT THE DIAL?

THE STUDENT BODY IS BECOMING ALARMED OVER THE DISAPPEARANCE.

TIME-PIECE IS A LONG-FELT NEED

"What about that sun dial?" This is the question which has been asked again and again in the last few weeks by students, since the publication of the facts concerning the 1906 present in these columns. The University public is anxiously awaiting to learn more of the whereabouts of the lost time-piece. Since the injury to the college clock in the belfry of East College the need of a sun dial has been much felt by the students and the absence of such a utility of the campus is the subject of many interrogations.

Authorities have been interviewed upon the subject but many of them have refused to say anything on the subject. The mystery is baffling but the solution is to come.

On tomorrow the facts in the case will probably be published revealing the present whereabouts of the lost sun dial.

Miss Helen Montgomery was in Indianapolis yesterday visiting her parents.

Surprise Friends and Relatives.

Ethel Boone Campbell, formerly of this city, but now a resident of Indianapolis surprised her many friends here this week by announcing to them her marriage to Mr. J. T. Dunn of Louisville, Ky. Mr. and Mrs. Dunn have kept their marriage a secret for many months. On Jan. 18, 1908 they went to Cincinnati, where they were quietly married, unknown to their many relatives and friends. On returning to Indianapolis after a few days in Cincinnati and Newport, Ky., they both resumed their former positions and with much secrecy have succeeded in keeping their marriage from their friends. Mrs. Dunn went to Indianapolis more than a year ago where she entered Eastman's Training School for nurses. She is a Greencastle girl and is well known and liked by every one. She has a host of friends in Greencastle and adjoining towns who wish her happiness and success. Mr. Dunn is a Southern gentleman, his former home being in Louisville, but for the past four years has made Indianapolis his home, where he has been employed with the Traction and Terminal company where he has a host of well wishers.

Since having made known their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Dunn are at home to their friends and relatives in their new home which has just been completed for them at 1238 S. Sheffield Ave., Indianapolis.

Waking a Deaf Person.

"To wake a deaf person who wishes to be called at a certain hour is about the hardest proposition a hotel clerk runs up against," said a member of that genial fraternity. "To ring the telephone is useless because the man couldn't hear if you rang until doomsday. Knocking, for the same reason, is equally futile. Now then a guest who has lost his hearing suggests that he leave his door open all night so we can walk right in and shake him, but even though he does appear to be a dead game sport there are so many chances of somebody else less judicious than ourselves walking in ahead of us that we cannot consent to that. So far the only satisfactory way found for waking a deaf lodger is to tie a string to his wrist, pass the string through the keyhole and then tug away at it at the appointed time. That method, however, is rather primitive. It seems to me that the man who can patent a harmless artistic device for waking the deaf is sure of fame and fortune, not to mention the gratitude of hotel clerks."—New York Sun.

The Mullahs of India.

A mullah, or, as it is more properly written, molah, is a title given in India and throughout the east generally to a religious leader of any description. Thus the sultan of Turkey is a mollah, because he is the supreme head of the muslim world. And there are hundreds of others. To most of the more conspicuous among them we prefix the adjective "mad." This, however, must not be taken to mean that they are insane, the word being used rather in its oriental significance of "inspired." The person of the mollah is sacred. Not even the mighty Habibullah himself would care to lay a sacrilegious finger on one of these saintly personages. If he were to venture such an unheard of thing, vengeance would surely overtake him. For it is the cardinal principle of the Umma—the mollahs are collectively termed—that an injury purposely caused to one of their number can only be atoned for by the death of the individual inflicting it.

The Schemer And the Widow.

By WILLIAM H. HAMBY.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

"Well, Jerry," I asked, "how did the advertising photographs come out? Did they cough up any dough?"

Milsap stretched himself wearily in an easy chair before the fire and stroked his drooping brown mustache sadly for a minute without replying. I had not seen him before for two years and knew that he was just floundering out of the slough of despondency which always lay between the end of one of his schemes and the beginning of another.

"The fact is, George," he said regretfully, "that was a fine idea. It would have been the biggest thing you ever heard of if it hadn't been for one thing. Just when we were ready to do business the music trust busted!"

"Yes, yes, I understand, Jerry," I interrupted. "Somewhere a cog slipped, and something went 'zip!' It always does, Jerry. There is only one thing wrong with your schemes—there is always one more cog in your wheel than in the track you run on, and you get bumped."

Milsap looked so bad that I almost regretted my flippant remarks. His last scheme had been to scatter photographs that advertised a noted breakfast food by song and story. The manufacturer, according to Jerry's plan, was to pay so much for each record put in circulation, and the only drawback had been he would not do it.

But Jerry rallied directly.

"I tell you, Menegau, I've got the scheme this time—it will make coin."

IT CONTAINED A SMALL PICTURE OF THE TWO BOYS.

you bet—the greatest scheme you ever heard of, and it will give value received too."

"Well?" I asked dubiously. "It's a correspondence school," he said, gripping my knee and peering into my face like an encyclopedia agent.

"On the ground too late, Jerry," I said. "There is already a correspondence course covering every field of learning and endeavor, from the art of making peanut candy to the science of not stammering."

"That's it exactly," he exclaimed: "there is a school for everything but one, and that thing is the most important of all. It touches almost every family in this great land and is a question of great perplexity, of vital importance, of burning interest!" He paused to gather breath.

"What is it?" I demanded. "Raising boys," he answered triumphantly. "I will start a correspondence school to teach people how to raise boys. You see, I want to specialize at first, but may branch out and include girls later."

"But just now it is the problem of the boy that is keeping parents all over the land awake at nights and bringing their prematurely gray hairs down to sorrow and hard work. Look at the interest in the courts and newspapers and magazines in this boy question. Now is the time to strike."

"The course will embrace every step from the cradle to the United States senate and will cost only $25. Think of it! Don't you see how it will appeal? Why, one doctor's bill would cost that, one fine for shooting craps, the telegrams to locate a single runaway."

He gazed into the fire for a time, and I knew by the way the corners of his mustache began to lift the idea was still expanding.

"You see," he continued, "our patronage will not be confined to parents of boys. We will sell a great many courses to young people and old maids. The best recommendation for matrimony any one can have will be one of our diplomas. In fact, I may be able to get laws passed requiring a certificate of graduation from my school before a marriage license will be issued."

In due time there appeared in many publications a striking advertisement of "Professor Jerry Milsap's How to Raise Boys Correspondence School."

About six months later Jerry came to see me again.

"I am bothered about help," he explained, "and I came to see, Menegau, if you would consent to take charge of the detective department. You are not a detective, of course, but you can do the work. All you have to do is explain to parents actions of their boys which they do not understand and teach them how to predict from certain signs, looks and preparations what the boys intend to do."

I consented to try it and thereby lifted a load off Jerry's mind. The concern, he told me, was very promising. More than 200 students had already been enrolled, and many inquiries were coming in by every mail. It was to answering inquiries that Jerry devoted himself—that was why he needed help.

At the end of the week he wanted me to take charge of the moral and educational departments also and promised me a big salary. I consented.

Usually I had little trouble in answering any inquiries that came to my department, but one day I had a letter from a woman in Kansas which I thought best to pass up to Jerry, the fountain head of wisdom.

There were two sons, the woman wrote, one six, the other eight. She was young and inexperienced when she married and since her husband's death had tried to manage a 500 acre farm and raise the boys at the same time. Then she asked many difficult questions.

It was a well written letter, sincere and appealing, and left the impression that there was a brave woman trying cheerfully to carry burdens too heavy for one human being.

Jerry read the letter, sat biting the ends of his mustache for an hour and then dictated a lengthy reply.

In a few days she wrote again. The letter was full of gratitude to the professor for his help and asked many other questions, all bright and pointed. Jerry went to the typewriter and answered that one himself.

Letters came quite regularly after that, and I turned them unopened over to Jerry. Once only did I open one, and that before I recognized the postmark. It contained a small picture of the two boys taken with their mother. I am not much of a judge, but the boys looked first rate to me, and the woman looked bright and energetic and, I was sure, had glorious red hair.

The next morning Jerry came to my desk as I was closing it for the night.

"Menegau," he said very soberly, "this Kansas case interests me very much." "Is that so?" I said, quite as soberly. "It is a case that I must work out successfully," he said earnestly. "My professional reputation is at stake. I think I had better run out there and see those boys personally. Can you manage affairs until I return?"

I thought I could, and he went Saturday.

He did not return. I settled up the business, and there was enough to pay all debts, even including my salary.

Mrs. Jerry wrote me when I sent the final report. She said she was writing, as her husband was too tired to write. It was a very nice letter. She thanked me for the way I had managed the affairs, invited me to visit them, and added: "We are very happy and getting along fine. I find it no trouble to manage now that I have some one to carry out my plans, and Jerry is the best hand to carry out plans I ever saw."

A Girl's View of It.

"We were late," groaned the girl who was tired, "because we went five teen blocks out of our way."

"Why did you do that?" asked her brother. "Why didn't you keep your eyes open and take the right car?"

"I did," said the girl. "I knew which way to go, but my escort got confused, and I didn't dare put him on the right track. If I had he never would have forgiven me. I have lost the friendship of three interesting men by that very evidence of strong mindedness. Experience has taught me that next to being caught in a fib the thing that most riles a man is to be guided by a woman. To wander around like a babe in the woods, to retrace his steps a dozen times and finally to arrive some where an hour late are blunders that he can cover up with one excuse or another, but for a woman to take the lead and say 'We want this car' or 'We must go this way' presupposes a state of lamentable ignorance on his part and makes him hate that woman for evermore."—New York Press.

Wasted Royal Effort.

The king of Wurttemberg while out motoring in the country with the Grand Duke Adolphus of Mecklenburg saw coming toward him a cart drawn by a white horse in which were seated a sturdy old peasant and his wife. As the motor car approached the white horse became very restive, pranced, reared and finally fell down on the roadway. The king and the grand duke immediately ordered the chauffeur to stop and, getting down from the car, went to the assistance of the fallen animal. Meanwhile the two old peasants sat stolidly in the cart and made not the slightest effort to raise the horse. The grand duke seized the creature's head, and the king proceeded to loosen the traces. After a good deal of trouble the horse was got upon its legs again and reharnessed, and then the grand duke addressed the old man in the cart. "There," he said, handing him a coin. "It's all right now, my good man. You can go and tell your friends that the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg picked up your horse and that the king of Wurttemberg helped him." The peasant bit the coin to see if it was good and then replied: "Ye might have saved yourselves all this trouble, for my old horse always lays down when he hears one of those horrid motor cars coming. But as soon as it's past he gets up again of his own accord."—Bellman.

ABOUT WOOL

If this advertisement will help you to receive something better—something more—than you have ever had before for like money, then you ought to be glad to read every word of it.

You are going to buy your Fall and Winter suit or overcoat anyway.

Then don't tolerate any cotton—you don't need to—cotton in men's clothing means trouble and dissatisfaction sooner or later.

Wool is the only thing that is good enough for you.

Wool suits and overcoats keep their color, hold their shape, stand the wear.

Yet, in these days of clever imitations cotton is often passed off as wool—and some clothes made of cotton look well at the start—but only at the start.

You can be sure.

The makers of CLOTHCRAFT are the oldest fashioners of men's clothing in the country.

Their name stands for honesty and fair dealing. They guarantee CLOTHCRAFT suits and overcoats to be all wool—every time, all the time.

Their guarantee is good; we put ours on top of it.

You are safe when you buy CLOTHCRAFT—the only all wool—guaranteed all wool—clothing selling at from $10 to $25 the suit or overcoat.

We picked the swellest things from nearly 1,000 designs. Come early, before the big demand breaks up stock.

History.

When Sir Robert Walpole retired into private life time hung heavy on his hands, and Horace exerted himself to amuse his father. One day he offered to read to him.

"What will you read, child?" asked Sir Robert wearily.

Horace suggested history.

"No, no," replied the veteran statesman; "not history, Horace; that can't be true."

Unhappy Hindoo Women.

The Hindoo holy books forbid a woman to see dancing, hear music, wear jewels, blacken her eyebrows, eat dainty food, sit at a window or view herself in a mirror during the absence of her husband and allow him to divorce her if she has no sons, injures his property, scolds him, quarrels with another woman or presumes to eat before he has finished his meal.—Liverpool Mercury.
